

Abstract

An apparatus and method for imparting rejuvenating energy to the skin uses a handheld ergonomic apparatus with selectable treatment components to achieve tuned energy application to a portion of the dermal layer of a user.